Crack NEET/IIT Physics with CbseGetting into a prominent and well-recognised engineering or medical college is a vision that each student has, but only a few students reach their goal.

From deciding to enter engineering or medical to preparing for NEET Physics OR JEE, taking the exam and qualifying it to get admission in one of the IITs Or Govt Medical College, this is a long journey for each student.

Millions of students appear for NEET AND JEE and venture the examination each year. And, out of which only 10% get near to getting into their dream college (or close to it, as JEE advanced is another stage). Those who couldn't clear the exam shouldn't lose the hope; instead, they should utilise their second opportunity well by making the right study plan for JEE 2019 AND NEET 2019.

There can be many inferences you weren't able to crack the examination, may it be lack of preparation, lack of mental/physical health or any other matter. Learn, two is better than one, as for now, you know how the test is going to be: the pattern, the time taken while carrying out the test, kind of questions and level of problems asked.

This blog is to support you guys out by giving advice that you should keep in mind for the second attempt to ace JEE NEET
